Digitech Systems Awarded Best Cloud Content Management Service

PaperVision.com Honored by Keypoint Intelligence – Buyers Lab

Greenwood Village, CO – April 14, 2020 – Digitech Systems is pleased to announce that PaperVision.com was chosen by analysts at Buyers Lab as the Outstanding Cloud Content Management Service for 2020.

As the product evaluation division of Keypoint Intelligence, Buyers Lab (BLI) has been the world's leading independent product evaluator specializing in the information management and imaging industries, for more than 50 years. Before PaperVision.com was launched, the BLI product analysts performed a thorough evaluation by combing through the product capabilities and assessing its strength against competitive technologies. PaperVision.com earned a platinum rating on the review by the BLI analysts, who highlighted the complete feature set that can be built as a company's needs grow, the ability to quickly and simply automate document processes, and the best-in-class cyber security in the cloud.

“Documents and the data they contain are critical to the function of most organization, but business processes are often overwhelmed by the barrage of electronic and paper documents involved in everyday tasks. ...PaperVision offers an impressive roster of features, from efficient document filing and collaboration capabilities along with powerful data search features for finding stored documents.

“...overall, PaperVision is tough to beat. The flexible pricing model means customers pay only for the functionality they need, while the robustness of the platform means they will never outgrow its capabilities.”

*Jamie Bsales,
Director of Solutions Analysis, Keypoint Intelligence*

The Pick Awards honor the most impressive solutions reviewed by BLI during the evaluation period, and they are given in several categories. Other Winter Pick award recipients include Canon, HP, and Xerox.

“What an honor that PaperVision.com has been recognized as a ‘Pick’ award winner by Buyers Lab—even before it became available to the general public!” said HK Bain, CEO of Digitech Systems. “Information management in the cloud is critical for the success of today’s businesses as they facilitate various work-at-home strategies. PaperVision.com not only provides access to information and effective collaboration, it also enables process automation and improves data security. We’re thrilled to see PaperVision.com recognized as the best product available at delivering these benefits.”
